Our Services

What is Personal Health Monitoring?

Our app allows residents to measure their own vital signs in the privacy of their homes and securely transmit the data to the doctor. This ensures that residents manage their health in accordance with their care plan. Based on the transmitted data, doctors can make timely adjustments as needed.

Based on the individual health condition, a doctor will recommend to a resident a combination of self-measurement such as:

- Blood pressure
- Blood sugar levels
- Oxygen saturation
- Heart rate
- Weight
- Exercise activities such as walking for example

Residents will be provided with measuring devices as well as a smartphone application to store and review the results.
